A WORD FROM THE FOUNDER/CEO

Dear Community Partners and Friends,

I am thankful and completely honored to have had your continual support for Children of Homicide Victims. Our mission is possible because of YOU!

With 181 homicides, COHV extended our reach toward 101 children who lost one or both parents to homicide in 2023. With a lifetime of support victims children have access to unlimited resources beyond the time of their parents passing. For example, 55 active and returning children participated in group healing sessions and were supplied school supplies and holiday gifts.

Our former Secretary and Treasurer completed their terms in excellence. Under their leadership we were able to retain connections with returning families as well as create budgets for programs.

We treasure our volunteers who stand on the frontline and support every event. Many community partners helped us successfully produce quality programs and events such as Gifts to Heal and the S.T.I.K.E Out Homicide Showcase.

Volunteer and Community Partners support our mission to restore love, faith, and hope to children of murder victims; and to conquer adversaries by providing resources and a community of support.

In gratitude,

SUNNIE CARNEY
FOUNDER/CEO

Impact Story

COHV meets monthly to learn skills and activities
beneficial to their healing journey.

Cincere's father Cameron Lamb was killed in 2019 backing up
in his garage by a former KC police officer.

This made way to
national news.
Cincere joined COHV this year experiencing trauma and behavioral challenges.

"He loves having a
people around who understand him and who
he can talk to.

Cincere Lamb

His behaviors have decreased since joining
and we are so thankful
for all the resources,
activities, and help
especially during Christmas time COHV
offers him"
